

GROVER CALLS
FOR GOLD BONDS.

Important Special Message Addressed to Congress.

ISSUE OF FIFTY YEAR SECURITIES RECOMMENDED.

President's Plan Not Received With Favor, Silverites Being Especially Bitter Against the Move—Speaker Crisp Ready For Work—Sugar Differential Up For a Vote in the House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The president's special message to congress advocates an issue of fifty-year, three per cent. gold bonds in denominations ranging from twenty dollars upwards. It is not received with favor, especially by the silverites. Speaker Crisp who has been at Asheville, N. C., for the benefit of his health, is expected to-day or to-morrow, and if special legislation is demanded by Mr. Cleveland to meet the crisis an effort undoubtedly will be made to comply with his wishes. To-day a vote will probably be taken on the bill to repeal the differential imposed by the tariff act on sugars from bounty paying countries before district matters get the right of way. It is the present intention to give Tuesday and Wednesday to the bill reported from the Pacific railroad committee to fund the debt of the Union Pacific road, but, as previously stated, this bill depends on the President's wishes. The remainder of the week will be devoted to the consideration of the navy and agricultural appropriation bills.

WILL TALK ON HAWAII.

The Debate to Be Continued This Week in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The week in the senate will open with the renewal of the discussion of the Hawaiian question, which promises to become the subject of several more very animated speeches before it shall be definitely and finally disposed of. The administration is hopeful of reversing the verdict of Saturday when the next vote shall be reached, which shall be on the final adoption of the substitute. The bankruptcy bill has been given the position of unfinished business and will occupy attention for the greater part of the week. Senator George will begin the debate to-day. He expects the measure to encounter pronounced opposition. When the bill is disposed of the senate will probably proceed to consider the pooling bill. If the threatened conflict between this bill and the territorial admission bills should occur a majority of the republican senators would support the faction favorable to taking up the pooling bill and would probably turn the tables in its favor.

Income Tax Advocates Growing.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Members of congress who believe in the income tax as an equitable method of raising revenues are gratified at the unexpectedly good showing of the preliminary canvass made by the collectors of the internal revenue at the direction of Secretary Carlisle. They believe the greater amount realized from this tax the more popular it will become and the more firmly rooted as a part of the policy of the government. From the results of the canvass of the internal revenue bureau it appears that Mr. Hall was more nearly correct than the other forecasters. He now says the income tax may yield more than $50,000,000, and it is known that the treasury department officials do not place its results below that mark. The showing made by the thirty-six of the sixty-three districts gives ground for the estimate that about 500,000 persons and corporations will contribute to the treasury by this plan.

Blizzard in New York.

SARAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 25.—The blizzard yesterday assumed the proportions of a hurricane. The wind has piled the snow everywhere in huge drifts and the highways are impassable. No trains have arrived here since Saturday evening and the railroad companies have not attempted to run a train out. Railroad officials say, even should the storm cease, the trains will not run until to-night or the following morning, as the snow is piled along the tracks in the Adirondacks, where the distances between places are great. Many travelers are snow bound in the woods.

Want to See the Conductor.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 28.—Recent dispatches from Minneapolis giving the details of the Hayward trial contained the statement a street car conductor had been arrested to be used as a witness. His name is not known, but he is believed to have important knowledge of the case. The nine jurors secured to try Hayward were kept in confinement all day yesterday. They were marched down to the hotel near to the jail for their meals, but these occasions were the only ones during which they were permitted outside of the county bastille.

Collieries Shut Down.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 28.—All the collieries of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company will be idle during the coming week.

GET READY TO WORK.

Illinois Legislators Getting Ready to Introduce Many Bills.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 28.—The legislature has been in session since Jan. 9, and has accomplished little beside the election of Cullom to the United States senate. A number of bills and resolutions have been introduced in both branches of the assembly and referred to committees not formed. In the main they have been unimportant and of nonpolitical import. The senate committees were announced last week, and that body is ready for work. One of the most important committee is the committee on appropriations. The bill providing for the reconstruction of the insane hospital at Anna and appropriating $190,000 for a fire-proof building will be one of the first bills before that committee. One of the bills in the senate which has caused considerable comment is Hamer's, defining anarchy and fixing death as the penalty. A bill is in contemplation by a senator making it a death penalty to attempt or to rob a train. Any number of arbitration bills have been introduced in both branches. These will probably be merged into committee bills and reintroduced.

MANY WORTHLESS CHECKS.

Prominent Business Men of Duluth Are Accused of Passing Them.

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 28.—A worthless check epidemic has struck Duluth, implicating many well known people. It started late in the fall and has been kept up so blindly that merchants of Duluth have cashed thousands of dollars of worthless checks, drawn by comparatively well known in some cases supposedly sound business men. One arrest was made yesterday afternoon which caused a sensation, that of Alexander Roberts, who for years had a good bank account, and who is a brother of a wealthy contractor. Last night H. B. Crowl, chemist and assayer, was arrested on the same charge. The police now have warrants for fifteen or twenty other men who fell into this practice and intend to make the arrests to-day.

MURDERED BY TRAMPS.

Alabama Merchant, Is Found Bound, Gagged and Smothered.

EUTAW, Ala., Jan. 28.—Lew G. Wilson, a merchant near Evans station on the Cincinnati, Selma & Mobile railroad, was murdered in his store Thursday night. Two well dressed tramps had been seen around his place for some days and they are supposed to be the murderers. Wilson was found early this morning and with ropes around his legs and body, three handkerchiefs stuffed in his mouth, and his head buried in the mattress, where he suffocated.

Johnson Breaks Skating Records.

RED BANK, N. J., Jan. 28.—The 100-yard skating record standing start, was broken yesterday afternoon by John S. Johnson, who made the distance in 9.5 seconds. Davidson, who was second, was only one fifth of a second behind. With a flying start Moshier and Davidson skated the 100 yards in 7 seconds. The skating races, which were postponed Saturday, will be held to-day James Denoghue's entry has been received.

Joliet Billet Men on a Strike.

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 28.—In the last days of December the scale of wages for the tonnage men of the billet department of the Illinois Steel company in this city expired, and the employees and the company have been unable to agree on a new scale for the ensuing year. The company proposed a 25 per cent cut, and this the men say they will fight to the bitter end. There are about forty tonnage men at the mills here, and their refusal to accept the cut throws 1,000 men out of work.

Accused of a Shocking Murder.

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 28.—Jose A. Benavides, Trinidad Ortiz, Czesacio Martinez, and another Mexican whose name is not known have been arrested on the charge of murdering Thomas Martinez, a stockman at Lamuralla, and burning his body. It is understood that the horse and gun of the murdered man were found in possession of the parties arrested.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 28.—State Mine Inspector Hillhouse has completed his report of the ore output and coke manufacture in Alabama in 1894. The iron ore output was 1,377,065 tons, against 1,254,621 tons in 1893, an increase of 122,444 tons. The coke manufacture was 987,000 tons, a slight falling off from the preceding year.

I., Jan. 23.—At a meeting of the striking employees of the British Hosiery company at Thornton yesterday the proposition of the manager that as a compromise they accept a 10 per cent cut, with a guarantee of steady employment until July, was accepted, and the eight weeks' strike is ended.

CITY INVESTED BY THE INVADING TROOPS.

Tartars Anxious to March Against the Chinese—An Offer of Aid From Them Refused By General Nodzu of the Island Forces—Mexico Talks Fight.

WEIHAU, Wei, Jan. 28.—The city is surrounded on all sides by Japanese troops. Its surrender cannot be delayed long. General Nodzu, in an official dispatch, announces that he declined an offer made to him by a Tartar chief from Kirin, who recently arrived at the Japanese camps and denounced the Chinese depredations. The chief offered the services of 60,000 men to join the Japanese in attacking Moukden and to avenge Chinese cruelties. Natives of Liao Yang, Manchuria, have also petitioned the Japanese to speedily occupy that city.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28.—News comes from the staff of the First Japanese army in Manchuria that an attack by the enemy's infantry has been repulsed, with a loss of 100 men. There is no change at Hai-Cheng. Gen. Nogi reports from Kai Ping that the enemy to the number of 11,000 are moving from Tapin-Chen to attack him.

MEXICO WILL NOT ARBITRATE
Guatemala Must Back Down If War Is to Be Averted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—War between Guatemala and Mexico seems inevitable. Guatemala can only prevent it by complying with the demands of Mexico and this it is apparently unwilling to do. Mexico will not arbitrate. The efforts at mediation by the United States have failed. From absolutely reliable authority it is said Mexico has politely but most positively declined to entertain the suggestion of the United States state department that the difficulty be submitted to arbitration.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 28.—The situation on the Guatemala affair is unchanged. Both Mexico and Guatemala are still going on with their war preparations, and prominent Mexicans think the outlook is gloomy, indeed, for peace, unless Guatemala recedes from the bold stand it has taken.

THE FRENCH CABINET.

Ribot Ad Interim Minister of War and Trarieux of Marine.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—The name of neither Gen. Jamont nor Admiral Bernard appears in the list of cabinet officers published in the Journal Official. The ministry of war will be occupied ad interim by Prime Minister Ribot and the ministry of marine ad interim by M. Trarieux, who also holds the portfolio of justice. This makes the new cabinet as follows:

Prime minister of finance and ad interim minister of war, M. Ribot; minister of justice and ad interim minister of marine, M. Trarieux; minister of foreign affairs, M. Hanotaux; minister of the interior, M. Leygues; minister of public instruction and worship, M. Poincare; minister of public works, M. Dupuy-Dutemps; minister of commerce, M. Audre Lodon; minister of agriculture, M. Gadeau; minister of the colonies, M. Chanteemps. The newspapers evince surprise at the composition of the cabinet, but their comments are not hostile.

De Giers Dies of Heart Disease.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 28.—The immediate cause of the death Saturday night of M. de Giers, the minister of foreign affairs was angina pectoris, complicated with inflammation of the lungs. The catastrophe has been erected in the death chamber and requiems will be sung daily until the funeral takes place Wednesday next. It is not likely the death of M. de Giers will involve any change of policy, all of his probable successors being in accord with the czar in the desire for peace.

O'MALLEY, MARY, burned and cannot live. A strong wind was blowing at the time the fire started and the American hotel was soon a mass of flames. Two girls employed in the hotel, Maggie Flynn and Mary O'Malley, were hemmed in by the flames and were forced to jump from a second story window. Besides the American hotel the following buildings were burned: The Elmore house, Johnson & Co.'s hardware store, William P. Van Dorn's grocery, Isaac Mangelbaum's dry goods store, Jacob Kaiser's meat market, the postoffice, three dwelling houses and a barber shop. Most of the mail from the postoffice was saved and the merchants succeeded in rescuing a large part of their goods. The loss will amount to $30,000.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 28.—At 9 o'clock last evening a call came from Elmore for a fire engine and 1,000 feet of hose. The hose carts from Nos. 3 and 6 and No. 6 engine were sent on a Lake Shore special.

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

Indiana Legislators Tussling with a Big Subject This Week.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 28.—Nothing heretofore undertaken by the Indiana legislature will be of such general interest to the people of this state as the fight to come up in both branches this week against building and loan associations. From facts submitted to the legislators it is said the scheme of the building and loan business in Indiana is as Eutopian as was the famous Iron Hall project, and one which, the detractors claim, is sure to result sooner or later in as great a calamity. The governor makes a revelation regarding contract prison labor, showing that at the Jeffersonville prison the men who have contracted for convicts are $30,000 behind and the only security which the state has is a recent lien given by the contractors on accumulated stock. The lien is for $36,000 and the governor says there is a deficit then of $5,000 due from the contractors. This revelation leads to the supposition that a big shortage will be shown when the wardens have to show up their books.

Stern & Son, Daisy Roller mills, E. Sanderson Milling company, and C. Manegold & Son. The total capacity of these mills is about 12,000 barrels daily. The millers for some time had an agreement, but it is thought a single company operating the mills will cheapen the cost of production.

BROOKLYN STRIKE OFF

Street Railway Men Surrender and Go Back to Work.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 28.—The street railway war is ended. Strikers surrendered today and as many as could get places returned. Everything was comparatively quiet in Brooklyn yesterday and soldiering was a play occupation. The companies got back to the number of lines they operated Friday—twenty-six, which is two more than were moving cars Saturday, two having been temporarily obstructed. Greenpoint strikers did some stone throwing and they were wired out in the Twenty-sixth ward.

A pathetic incident occurred on the opening of the Cypress Hills line. The crowd mounted the platform of a car and attempted to drag off the motor-man. He showed fight and was badly beaten. He was rescued by his wife who pleaded with the mob.

It was reported that all the Knights of Labor in Brooklyn would go out on strike, but no credence can be put in the rumor. The saloons throughout Brooklyn were kept tightly closed yesterday in obedience to a special order issued by Mayor Schieren.

THE PICKIN CASE HAS PETERED OUT

THE EAU CLAIRE HYPNOTIC SENSATION EXPLODED.

District Attorney it is Said, Thinks the Case Ought to Be Dropped and Peckin Says if They Do Not Drop it He Will Sue 'Em For Heavy Damages.

EAU CLAIRE, Jan. 28.—The Pickin hypnotic sensation at Eau Claire has petered out and all that remains of it is Dr. Pickin's promise to sue that the city authorities for heavy damages, the advertising that the city and Professor Flint received. The case against the long-whiskered doctor will, in all probability be dropped, but in this respect the authorities are now standing on ground between the evil one and the ocean. If the case is dropped, Pickin says he will sue the city for big damages, while the district attorney is quoted as saying that the evidence is a little light and that to discontinue the proceedings in the wisest course. This case has been talked of and became celebrated all over the country. Mabel Briggs, the complaining witness, claimed that Dr. Pickin and his son, Asegal, hypnotized her and then abused her in a shameful manner. Dr. Flint's "grand stand entrance" into the affair and his efforts to undo the "spell" under which the girl was said to have been put by Dr. Pickin is well remembered. The case made a sensation and furnished columns of news for the papers from San Francisco to New York.

KEPT POSTAGE DUES.

Clerk Mitchell of San Francisco Is Charged with Theft.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 28.—A defalcation has been discovered in the postoffice. Mitchell, the accountant, was short a considerable amount. The deficit is certainly $800 and may reach several hundred dollars more. Mitchell admitted his guilt. It is Mitchell's duty to receive from the newspapers the pre-payment of postage and instead of turning over the full amount to the cashier he diverted portions of the money to his own use and then sought to hide his operations by manipulations of his books.

ARMORY A PARLOR ON A LARGE SCALE

THREE HUNDRED GUESTS ENJOYED THE SCENE.

Party Given By Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Jeffris, Mrs. Bostwick and the Misses McKinney, Hanchett and Sutherland a Success in Every Way—Many Brilliant Costumes.

The big box-like Armory seemed altogether a different place Saturday night. Curtains hid every window and improved the proportion of the room by cutting the walls into alternate panels of tapestry. Palms banked the orchestra stand and extended their graceful arms above the drapery. A canopy of bunting set off by two big Japanese umbrellas filled one corner and here, amid the surroundings of a drawing room four hundred guests were received. Those who greeted them were Mrs. D. K. Jeffris, Mrs. C. B. Bostwick and Misses Theresa McKinney, Etta Hanchett and Cora Sutherland. Mrs. C. C. McLean, whose name appeared on the cards of invitation was unable to be present.

It was early when the first carriages crunched through the snow and left their passengers to make their way up the crash-covered stairs. At half past seven there was a merry circle about the reception corner and at 8 Johnnie Smith's men swung from a promenade measure to a waltz and dancers filled the floor.

There were but brief intermissions in the dancing until midnight. Refreshments were served in the company room at the left of the entrance. In the center of the room was a large table strewn with smilax and yellow and pink roses. Seats for three score guests were ranged about the room and the serving was done by eight pretty maidens in white—Katherine Smith, Hattie Bostwick, Mabel Lewis, Helen Prichard, Alice Shearer, Luella Croft, Amy Woodruff and Sophie Welsend.

DR. BARROW'S LIFE A PASTOR'S THEME

MEMORIAL SERVICES IN THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Old Settlers, Physician and Members of the Cemetery Association Present in a Body—Eloquent Tribute to the Departed—News From Local Houses of Worship.

Dr. L. J. Barrows' life story was told to sorrowing friends by a loving historian yesterday. Memorial services were held in the Presbyterian church at 10:30, the church being filled to the doors by people from every congregation in the city. Just before the hour sixty men—the Old Settlers Association, the Oak Hill Cemetery association and the Janesville physicians—filed in and took seats reserved for them near the front. To them the services had especial significance for each had personal knowledge of the worth of their departed associate.

Rev. Mr. Pence in his memorial address took his hearers back to the fountain head-back for three generations. From England to America in 1837; through the troubled days of the Revolution and into the life of a new nation he sketched the fortunes of the Barrows (at first Barrie) family. Eleazar Storrs Barrows, a teacher, preacher and editor of rugged earnestness and great force was Dr. Barrows' father. The father's death in 1847 necessitated a trip to the undeveloped wilds of the distant state of Wisconsin in the following year. The estate included title to two sections of land in what is today Rock county. The possession had occasioned great annoyance producing nothing and consuming much in taxes. Here he found one section possible of disposal. That land is today in the heart of Beloit. The other was not marketable at that time. It covered a part of what is now the First ward of the city of Janesville. Bought originally for a dollar and a quarter an acre, eventually it sold for two hundred dollars an acre.

"The trip west" said the speaker, "determined the young physician to make the village of Janesville his home, at that time having a population of eighteen hundred or two thousand. He opened an office and commenced practice which he continued uninterrupted until the day of his death, saving the interim of his partnership with Mr. J. B. Ogilvie in the drug business.

"His place in the community was a prominent one. An old settler recalls the fact that he was a member of the first volunteer fire company in 1851. He was medical examiner for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company during the first year of its existence, that company having had its beginning here, and was local examiner until his death.

"He held the same position in relation to other companies. At various times during his long career here he was the secretary of the school board of Janesville, chairman of the visiting board for Mendota asylum, trustee for the school for the blind. During the late war he was medical examiner in connection with Dr. Head of Edgerton in the provost marshal's office.

Almost from its inception he was secretary of the Oak Hill Cemetery Association. One feature of the policy which he advocated in the expenditures of money by that association. It illustrates his provident thought. He advocated the establishment of a fund to be constantly increased and held in reserve, so that when the sale of lots should cease from their exhaustion, this fund might be used still to beautify when the ordinary resources should be cut off."

Dr. Barrows' liberality, his courtesy, his power as a thinker and his kindness were touched upon tenderly. In closing the speaker said:

"Length of life is not determined by the number of its years, but by fulness thereof. This was a long and a full one too. Some men fill out their places in a community, and then contract while the pressure of the world gradually fills in, and they are not missed. Their dying is only nominal; so far as a world is concerned they have been dead for years.

"But this man's life had not reached its culmination. He was still expanding, and bid fair to expand for many years to come. Hence his place is a vacant one, and the shock came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky."

The two anthems sung by the choir during the service were "Jesus, Let Me Lean on Thee" and "One Sweetest Solemn Thought."

A PASTOR ON "MEN OF THE WORLD." Rev. E. H. Pence Finds Prodigal Sons Right Here At Home.

A minister's idea of a "man of the world," Rev. E. H. Pence stated it last night, and showed his congregation that the term in its complimentary sense might fit a good many right here at home. The prodigal son was taken as an early type of the modern product. He was selfish—he wanted to use all he could of his father's property to advance his own ends and his own pleasure. When men accept from God an endowment of brain and muscle and do not render him the service which is his due they are selfish in precisely the same way.

Another element of the prodigal son's nature was declared to be moral cowardice—he longed for riotous living but dared not indulge under his father's eye, so he drifted to a far country. Young people and older people sometimes deal with Christianity in very much a way—they pass it by because of the moral restraint it puts upon them. Sin's first impulse is not to call Christ master—to call none master. Such a feeling is the center of a Godless life. The well balanced, self-centered man of the world is very frequently the type of this. God's capital is the store of principles and intellect and energy that he has stored here. None can come here to take a share in this capital, use it for his benefit alone and still fulfill his just obligation. It is robbing God of the forces with which he designs to save the world.

Mr. Pence will speak on the same parable next Sunday night his topic being "Spend the Principle."

DR. HALSEY ON WORKING WOMEN. Many Pertinent Thoughts Voiced by the Court Street Pastor.

Dr. Halsey delivered one of his characteristic Sunday night sermons at Court street church last evening, his subject being, "Christ and Working Women." He said that there were three classes of women and three only, "wives, mothers and daughters." A good woman was man's safest companion and truest friend. "The woman at the well," the topic of Dr. Halsey's discourse, indicated the wonderful interest and solicitude that Christ had for women. With the advance of civilization her condition has improved until now she is recognized as the equal, and not unfrequently the superior of the stronger sex. Our colleges, even, including Beloit, have at last thrown open their doors, enlarging the opportunities of woman's usefulness. In every avenue of life open to woman's work, her influence and ability is recognized and her work in life faithfully performed.

NOSES WHITE WITH THE FROST.

Church Goers Suffered From the Cold—Old Man Badly Frozen.

It bothered people to keep guard over their render points yesterday. Many hurried into church with nose or ears frost bitten. Those who rode in from the country suffered most, one old man reaching the church doors after a six mile drive with both ears, his nose and two fingers frosted. His case was so serious that he was hurried off to a doctor. None of the other sufferers sought medical aid but bore the pain stoically, after perhaps drawing the frost with a handful of snow rubbed on vigorously.

"Your ear is getting white!" was a common salutation in the neighborhood of the churches, the good Samaritan usually remaining long enough to help administer the friction cure.

THREE YEARS OLD.

What is it like, I wonder, to roam
Down through the tall grass hidden quite?
To feel very far away from home
When the dear house is out of sight?

To want to play with the broken moon
In the star garden of the skies?
To sleep through twilight eyes of June
Beneath the sound of lullabies?

To hold up hurts for all to see?
Sob at imaginary harms?
To clasp in welcome a father's knee
And fit so well to a mother's arms?

To have life bounded by one dull road,
A wood and a pond, and to feel no lack?
To gaze with pleasure upon a toad
And caress a mud turtle's horny back?

To follow the robin's cheerful hop,
With all the salt small hands can hold,
And coaxingly entreat it to stop—
What is it like to be three years old?

Ah! once I knew, but 'twas long ago—
I try to recall it in vain, in vain!
And now I know I shall never know
What it is to be a child again.
—Ethelwyn Wetherald in Youth's Companion.

MARKED IN BLOOD.

On Sept. 17 the inspector of police at the Kennington Road police station was preparing to go home, it being 8 a. m. and his night duty over, when he was stopped by an elderly woman, who rushed into the room and cried:

"Oh, do send some one, sir, to 118 Wernham road. My poor old master's been cruelly murdered. He's lying in his room in a pool of blood like a river. It must have been done in the night. Do come at once, sir."

On the way to Wernham road the inspector questioned the housekeeper.

"Who sleeps in the house besides yourself and the old gentleman?" he asked.

"Not a blessed soul, sir," cried Mrs. Masters. "Only me and my poor old master. Such a nice, regular man as he was, comin' 'ome every night to 'is tea and always in bed by 10 o'clock. Oh, it's a cruel thing!"

"Did any one visit him last night that you know of?" asked the inspector.

"Not that I know of, sir, but to tell you the truth I was in bed myself early last night, 'avin a bad attack of 'ead-ache. The old gentleman always let 'imself in with 'is latchkey, as he nat'rally would. He come to bed after I was asleep, for I never 'eard 'im come in."

"His supper was always laid out ready for 'im in the dinin room, and he wouldn't want no waitin on, so there was nothin wrong in my bein off to bed as I did, 'avin, as I said, a bad 'ead-ache and bein very subject to sick 'ead-aches, which, as you may know, sir, are very unpleasant, to say the least of them, and"—

"Was the supper eaten?" said the inspector, interrupting the woman's eloquence.

"Well, sir, to say the truth, I've not thought of lookin. Directly I see 'im a-lyin there I off to the station as 'ard as I can go. I can't sleep in the place tonight. That I can't."

By this time they had reached the house and went upstairs. The inspector and his man went in and looked the door behind them. A knock was heard at the door.

"Can I come in?" said Mrs. Masters. "Certainly," replied the inspector.

"Open the door, Jenkins. We shall want her no doubt."

"Poor, dear man!" cried the lady again when she saw the body of the old man. "The monsters!" She burst into tears.

"You had better go for a surgeon," said Mr. Bevis to the constable. "He ought to see the body as soon as possible, as we shall want his report on it."

While the man was gone the inspector, accompanied by Mrs. Masters, visited every room in the house. Everything was orderly and untouched.

The assassin must have left the place by the ordinary means of egress, for all the windows were locked. The front door, Mrs. Masters told the inspector, would no doubt have been unbolted in any case, for Mr. Mayne (her master, the man who lay dead) never bolted it if he let himself in, leaving her to do so.

They reached the dining room and found that the supper had been eaten. The bottle of ale was finished, there remaining only a small portion in the tumbler. The old man had evidently made a hearty meal and gone to his room.

The constable returned in half an hour with a divisional surgeon, Mr. Brooks. That gentleman made a minute examination of the corpse and said that the cause of death was a knife wound in one of the veins of the thigh.

The old man must have bled to death, and the process of dying must have been prolonged. He should have had an opportunity of calling for help. Mrs. Masters was certain, however, that he had not done so.

"I'm a light sleeper, gentlemen," she said, addressing the three men, "and the slightest thing wakes me. If he'd called out at the door, I must have 'eard 'im. It's a certainty."

"Quite so," said the surgeon. "I have no doubt, my good woman, that you are not at all to blame, but we shall, of course, go further into the thing at the inquest. At present there seems nothing to show by whose hand the old man died."

"What's that book doing there?" said the inspector abruptly, pointing to a dictionary which lay close to the old man. It was not beside him, but on a chair just above his head.

"A dictionary apparently," said the surgeon, glancing at it. "By Jove!" he cried suddenly as he turned over the leaves. "What's this? Every now and then I come to a word against which there is a mark in blood. This is strange."

"Is it blood or red ink, sir?" asked Mrs. Masters. "I know my poor old master used to study a good deal, and it's just possible he's been markin words down in that book which he might want to look up again."

"There's no mistaking—it's blood," said the surgeon, holding the book toward the light, "and fresh blood too. If I'm not very much mistaken, this is some sort of clew to the mystery."

The inspector took the book from the surgeon and glanced at it keenly.

"Upon my word," he cried, "I believe you're right. There seems something methodical in these occasional marks of blood against certain words. This is going to be interesting."

At the coroner's inquest the following report from Inspector Bevis was read privately, as the book contained therein would have been harmful to the negotiations of detectives who were running and ed man to death.

It ran as follows:

On the morning of Sept. 17, 1894, year 1 was called to 118 Wernham road, Kennington lane, at which house Mr. Mayne, the deceased, resided.

After making all the necessary arrangements Mr. Brooks, the surgeon, called my attention to a large dictionary which was on a chair within reach of the deceased. Throughout the book certain words were marked in blood.

Thinking this strange, I made an investigation of the book, which was an ordinary dictionary, evidently used by the deceased in connection with his literary work.

I determined on a plan of setting down on paper every word indicated by the crimson mark, on doing which I had the following list, which I give in the order in which I discovered them, going systematically through the dictionary:

"Masters goodbye to my I invention oldest communicated for cannot dictionary is plans friend to the move has him dynamo from in murdered the I here me details intended to tonight foolishly plans of to getting my patent or indicate next paper the dull new month so mark this murderer street dying his borough property name he drawings Whitelaw stone I house has stone Jasper blood to my I."

On going over this for some time I began piece by piece to put it together. I picked out first of all two words which seemed conspicuous—namely, "Jasper" and "Borough." Evidently the first was the name of the man connected with the deed, and the second was the district in London known by that name.

I next picked on the word "dull," which as an ordinary adjective seemed out of place in such a dying speech, and I at once remembered the street called "Dull street," which was situated in the borough. There seemed no doubt that the address given was in Dull street borough. So far so good.

Finding no other use for the words "stone" and "house," I ventured to use them as the name of residence in Dull street, which made my information read, "Stone house, Dull street, borough." On looking up the street surely enough I found the corner house called by that name.

After many hours' toil, twisting and turning, I at length got the words put into some sort of shape, and this is how they read:

"Jasper Whitelaw stone house Dull street borough has murdered me tonight foolishly my oldest friend all my drawings he has stolen plans property I communicated to him the details and plans of my new invention for the dynamo to patent next month I intended to get ink or paper cannot move from here and mark this so in dictionary my blood to indicate the murderer his name is I am dying all Masters goodbye I I."

On going over this again I transposed certain words, putting the first two words, "Jasper Whitelaw," after the phrase, "murderer is," which made the lines read more clearly. In the end, after great labor, I arrived at the following, which I submit for the consideration of the authorities:

"My oldest friend has murdered me tonight. Foolishly I communicated to him the details and plans of my new invention for the dynamo I intended to patent next month. I cannot move from here to get ink or paper and so mark this dictionary in my blood to indicate the murderer. His name is Jasper Whitelaw, stone house, Dull street, Borough. All my plans and drawings he has stolen. I am dying. All property to Masters. Goodbye."

The above is my report. To this I have nothing further to add. Attached hereto are the dictionary, my rough drafts of the solution and all the memoranda I made to assist me in the search.

JOHN DAVIS BEVIS.

This report was read privately, and the detectives went to work at once. The man Whitelaw was captured at the patent office, where he was in the very act of filing his application for the patent of the new dynamo machine.

At his lodgings in Dull street the papers and plans belonging to Mayne were found. Finding himself surrounded by testimony which seemed to come from the grave he made a full confession.

It seemed that he had met his friend, Mr. Mayne, on the evening in question. After sundry drinks together Mayne became communicative and eventually asked the other to come to his house. Here he explained to him the details of his invention.

Carried away as he was by the excitement produced by the liquor, he told all to the man, whom he trusted implicitly. But Whitelaw, seeing the prospect of a mighty fortune in the use of the patent, had stabbed the old man with his large pocketknife and left him on the floor bleeding to death, making his escape easily and without hindrance by the front door.—Exchange.

Pat's Conclusion.

A native of the Emerald Isle chanced to meet a fellow workman who was once his boon companion in a powder factory where a terrible explosion had occurred.

"Are you glad you left the arsenal, Pat?"

"Bedad, I am, Micky. If I had been working there now, I would have been dead a year ago!"—London Tit-Bits.

Feminine Sagacity.

"It's a great mistake," said a philosopher, "for a poor man to go into politics unless he is sure he can make a living at it."

"That's very true," replied the philosopher's wife, "but it seems to me that a man who could make a living at politics could get rich doing most anything else."—Detroit Free Press.

Too Much Curiosity.

First Colored Gent—Dat's a mity fine pa'r ob pants you has on. Whar did yer get 'em, and what dey cost yer?

"Huh, dey mont cost me two years in de plenopotenshiary of I tole yer," replied colored gent No. 2.—Tammany Times.

A NOBLE GIFT

PLACED IN A DAUGHTER'S HANDS
In Order That a Life's Work May Be Perpetuated.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS]

It was an eventful day.

One of the noblest women of the age felt the weight of years upon her.

Her whole life had been given to one grand work, and her name was known throughout the civilized world.

Before her was a younger woman, and they were seated in the great "record room," where were stored many women's stories of sorrow and joy.

Letters by the thousands, together with great books of record, containing the important points of advice and treatment in special cases, were all about them.

The elder woman turned over the leaves and read:

"I was sorely afflicted with chronic inflammation of the womb. . . . I am now well."

Turning over another page she read:—

"They said I was consumptive, and sent me away. . . . But you opened my eyes to the truth, and through you I am well."

Another page and:—

"Your remedy came to me with hope, then the truth dawned upon me. You saved my life, and I bless you continually."

Then the book was closed and placed in the hands of the younger woman.

"These are the records of my victories over the peculiar diseases of women. They give the history of each case, and how it was treated."

"I am growing old. Some day I must give up the effort, and I bequeath to you my life work for the physical salvation of women. Carry it forward that all may be cured."

The elder woman was Lydia E. Pinkham. The younger was her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Pinkham, the one woman fully equipped to carry out the requirements of this noble legacy, not only by natural endowments, but from her knowledge through constant study and years of experience in assisting her mother in her voluminous correspondence and personal treatment of women's diseases.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

814—Charlemagne, emperor of the west, died.

1596—Sir Francis Drake, British navigator of western seas, died.

1770—Beginning of the administration of Lord North, during which the American colonies were lost.

Frederick North, earl of Guilford, became leader of GEN. CARROLL.

the house of commons in 1769. Successful in debate, uniting great wit with suavity of manner, he was a favorite with the commons and won the favor of the king by accepting the premiership in the crisis of the war.

The war with the colonies he prosecuted with great vigor, being supported by large majorities in the house, and thus enabled to overcome the fierce opposition of Fox, Burke and Chatham. He resigned on the disastrous termination of the war by the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Lord Brougham said of him, "The American war is the great blot on his fame."

1850—William Hickling Prescott, American historian, died at Boston; born in Salem, Mass., 1796.

1888—Rear Admiral Clark H. Wells, U. S. N., died in Washington; born 1823.

1890—General Samuel Sprigg Carroll, U. S. A., retired, a prominent leader in the civil war, died in Washington; born 1832.

More than 90,000,000 Passengers.

Have been carried by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. during the past twenty-five years. Very few were unable to find any fault. The rest were delighted. One of them recently said—"For several years past I have made from two to four trips each month between Chicago and New York and almost always accompanied by from one to three or four others. I believe (as I am informed by your conductors), that I have made more trips between Chicago and New York than any other man during the past few years. I have always traveled over your road in preference to any other, because by careful comparisons with others I have found not only that the road itself is far superior, but the table and the service are in every respect the best of any roads I have ever traveled on. The conductors, stewards, waiters and porters I have found to be uniformly courteous and attentive, adding greatly to the comfort of those who are obliged to travel as much as I am. Trains leave Chicago as follows: 3:00 a. m., 10:30 a. m., 3:25 p. m., 5:30 p. m., 8:45 p. m., daily, and 11:30 p. m. daily except Sunday. H. S. Barlow, T. P. A., 139 Biddle Street, Milwaukee, Wis.; C. K. Wilber, W. P. A., Chicago.

Spring Attractions Are Coming.

The beginning of February spring goods will arrive and every day during the month will see something new being unpacked and placed on the counters. The reputation of this popular dry goods house of always being first with a low price will be maintained in every way, and dry goods buyers will serve their best interests in doing their spring trading where there is an advantage to be gained—that's here. Archie Reid.

Marshall Canrobert Dying.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Field Marshal Canrobert, who is suffering with phlebitis, is lying at the point of death.

The Reporter Was Rattled.

"I wonder where Miss Consuelo Astor, the new debutante, keeps her nose," said Mr. Murray Hill, who was reading a daily paper.

"What an absurd remark for a sensible man to make," said Mrs. Murray Hill, tossing her head.

"Nothing absurd about it. This society reporter writes: 'The fair young debutante has an exquisitely molded face, of which two dark hazel eyes are the central feature.' Now I want to know where her nose is situated?"—Texas Siftings.

A Queer Proceeding.

Mrs. Nextdoor—One of my windows is stuck, and I can't get it up or down.

Little Boy—Ours gets the same way sometimes.

"Who fixes them?"

"Papa."

"How does he do it?"

"I don't know. Quick as papa starts in to fix a stuck window mamma sends me out of the room."—Good News.

Sweet, Wifely Advice.

"John," she said, gently, "if I was you I'd let elections alone and jine a progressive euchre club."

Passer—What's going on in that hall?

Policeman—Well, there's a lot of long-haired men and short-haired women there, but I don't know whether it's a suffrage association or an athletic club.—N. Y. Weekly.

Of Course She Would.

"I offer thee," exclaimed the prince in the story, "my crown. Wilt share it with me?"

The beauteous maiden smiled. "Sure thing!" she answered. "Why shouldn't I? They are wearing men's styles in everything."—Town Topics.

A Sign of Conquest.

Madge—Young Mr. Purstrings is confident that he's won that girl.

Margaret—How do you know that?

Madge—When he takes her to the theater now he makes her ride in a street car, and he used to get a carriage.—Chicago Record.

"I don't know what field you work in," answered the tall man with the white tie, "but I am in the fire escape business."—Indianapolis Journal.

Forcing the Issue.

Billkins—Will you be mine?

Miss Yellowleaf—This is so sudden.

Billkins—Yes, I know, but your father has got me in a corner in a wheat deal, and if I don't begin to squeeze you, he'll squeeze me.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Little Pat—Och! thin she takes her own way.—Puck.

"JIM-JAMS" IN JAIL WAS ALVIRA'S LOT

POLICE BROKE UP MR. AND MRS. COX'S BANQUET.

Stolen Oysters Were Being Cooked and the Guests Were all Getting Primed For Action When the Officers Raided the House—Lady Had the Snakes.

WHILE they were cooking stolen oysters and getting ready to break the peace and everything else in sight, Elvira Lord-Cox and her husband were ruthlessly seized by the police last night and carted off to jail. This morning both were arraigned in the municipal court charged with being common drunkards. They were both found guilty and James was sent to the county poor house until April 1, while Alvira will stay there for three months. Alvira and her husband were getting ready for a high old time last night when the police arrived. They had several guests in their North River street home and when the officers looked in they saw Alvira preparing an oyster supper for the party. Cox had stolen four cans of oysters from W. F. Carle's grocery, while some of the other men had provided liquid refreshments. Sunday Alvira had a well-developed attack of the "jim-jams" in the county jail, and Dr. Joe Whiting who was called to attend her, found considerable difficulty in steadying her nerves.

A SPECIAL judgment in favor of the city of Janesville and against several delinquents who have failed to pay their special tax for the East and West Milwaukee street pavement, was ordered today in the circuit court, the aggregate amounting to $279.24 and costs. Only four parcels were reported delinquent in the settlement of this special improvement.

PROF. CHARLES KINZEL of Merrill, who was called by St. Paul's congregation to succeed Prof. John C. Zinck as teacher and organist, will arrive in Janesville on Friday and will be installed next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Prof. Zinck has been acting as organist until Prof. Kinzel's arrival after which he will devote his time to his classes.

AN order was issued by Judge Bennett today requiring S. B. Mill to pay Eva Mill $25 attorney's fee and $20 witness fees within five days. A judgment of foreclosure in the case of Joseph Ficht against Fredricka T. Ficht, was ordered, the amount being $496.36 and costs.

JUDGE BENNETT today overruled a motion to set aside a previous order granting suit money and alimony in the divorce proceedings of Mary E. Minard against Samuel T. Minard, the suit pending in the Jefferson county circuit.

MILTON MAN AND HIS MOUSE HUNT.

Down In Beloit They Draw Wrong Impressions From a Paragraph.

The Milton correspondent of the Janesville Gazette asserts that a man named Floyd Coon of Milton, has a contract with the Smithsonian institute at Washington to furnish that institution with specimens of Wisconsin mice of all species. If Milton was any other town than Milton this assertion might very naturally be taken to mean that one of its citizens was laboring under a hallucination superinduced by a too liberal and long protracted consumption of liquidated corn.—Beloit Free Press.

G. C. McLEAN'S DEATH SPREADS SORROW

END CAME AT 8 O'CLOCK SUNDAY MORNING.

Up to the Last There Had Been Hope of His Recovery—Departure of a Man Well Known in Wisconsin Manufacturing Circles—Funeral Tomorrow.

George C. McLean breathed his last at 8:30 Sunday morning. His illness was of short duration. When Mrs. McLean was taken sick, her husband, who knew something of medicine was much alarmed. When her illness reached a stage when blood was raised when she coughed, Mr. McLean made the remark that she could never get well. At that time he too, was feeling unwell and on the day that her death occurred, he coughed himself, raising a little blood. When he raised it his face paled and he was much agitated. He grew rapidly worse and despite the best of medical attendance, each day told on his strength and it became apparent that the end could not be far away. He grew a little stronger once or twice and new hope sprung up only to be blasted by another sickening spell. Saturday night the announcement came from the bedside that his condition was much improved and that there were hopes for him if he could hold his own until Sunday morning. When Sunday morning came, however, it found his vitality so sapped by the disease that further resistance was impossible.

Six sons survive—Alderman James B. McLean, Colin Campbell, who is now proprietor of the City Livery stable, Fred C., an engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern, Robert W., who was until recently in the drug business here, but now located in Waco, Texas, and Charles P., agent of the American Express Company in Janesville. Mr. and Mrs. McLean were members of the Presbyterian church in Janesville and he also belonged to the Masonic order which he joined in Somerset, Conn., and was also a member of the Janesville lodge A. F. & A. M. Some years ago, Mrs. McLean died, and Mr. McLean afterward married the late Mrs. James Van Etta whose death occurred but a few days before her husband was summoned.

Held Several Political Offices.

When he came to America Mr. McLean affiliated with the Whigs and was connected with that organization until the dissolution when he joined the republican party. He continued to support this party with his ballot until he became dissatisfied with the management and policy of that body when he joined the democratic party, the principles of which he had since supported. He has filled several political offices of honor and trust with credit to himself and his constituents. For several years he had held the office of alderman and was for six years a member of the school board. He was also the democratic nominee for the lower house of the legislature some years ago, but the district being strongly republican he was defeated. He was a man of broad views, well informed, and of wide experience. In his relations with men he was admired by all for his high sense of honor and fidelity to friends as well as for his quick perception and genial, kindly disposition. He was widely known throughout Wisconsin because of his prominence in woolen manufacturing and the announcement of his death will send sorrow into many a heart. Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church tomorrow at 2 o'clock. The burial will be under Masonic rites, Janesville Lodge, No. 55, being in charge.

Mrs. Betsy Sharp.

Just think of it, FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS will buy an almost new house of three good rooms, woodshed, good well of water; nicely located, and as a fact, it would be cheap at $600. If you have $100 cash to pay down you can have this place and pay the balance $5 or $6 per month. You never saw such a chance before and you never will again to get a good little home. This chance will cease within a week whether we sell or do not sell. Come and see us about it. Yours very truly,

BARN FULL OF STOCK BURNED AT NIGHT

HORSES, CATTLE, TOBACCO AND BUILDINGS LOST.

Charles Wilkie Hardly Settled on the Cleland Farm in Center Before Flames Swept Away All But the Dwelling—Loss Will Exceed Two Thousand.

Five horses and seven head of cattle were burned in Charles Wilkie's barn Saturday night. Besides the horses and cattle Mr. Wilkie lost his '94 crop of tobacco, much hay and grain, farming tools—in fact, everything on the farm not contained in the dwelling. The fire, which occurred between 11 and 12 o'clock Saturday night, is supposed to have started in the stripping room, and soon communicated to every building on the farm except the dwelling, everything being destroyed except the house and its contents.

Mr. Wilkie recently bought the farm, the old James Cleland place in the town of Center. It is said he had no insurance on his tobacco, and but very little on stock and building. His loss will amount to two or three thousand dollars.

Merry to the Last.

It was the 21st of April, 1821. Dr. I. P. Frank, the eminent governor of the university hospital, Vienna, lay on his deathbed, and was expected every moment to pass away. Once more the eight leading medical men gathered around his couch. All at once the patient burst out laughing. "What is it that tickles your fancy?" his friends inquired. "A story has just come into my mind," was the reply. "On the battlefield of Wagram lay a French soldier counting his wounds. 'Sacre bleu!' he exclaimed, 'it takes eight bullets to kill a French grenadier.' Gentlemen, there are eight of you, too'."

Thus he spoke and expired in a fit of laughter.

WHY THE GODET SKIRT IS SO DIFFICULT TO MAKE.

The Seams Must Be Sewed and Pressed to Look as if They Had Grown Together. The Greatest Obstacle Is the Burnoose Plait.

[Copyright, 1895, by American Press Association.]

The fluted or godet skirt, made with five pieces, is a work of patience and art, but when finished, like all perfect things, it is a joy to the possessor. In this the front breadth is cut narrow, only 20 inches across the foot of the front piece. At the top it measures 12 inches and is to be cut on the straight, with the fold in the center. There are no darts in this. The side breadths measure 24 inches each at the bottom and 18 at the top. There is one dart in the front part. The two XX's show where it joins the front. The back goes are cut from the full width of 54 inch material, with the front side against the selvage, with the thread straight by the line. The back is slightly gored. These gores measure 2 1/2 yards, so that the skirt measures 158 inches around the bottom. The top of each back breadth is 20 inches. The material, if of thick wool, should have been sponged and shrunken before cutting. Sewing seams up and carefully pressing apart are done in this skirt only after the back portions have been lined with horsehair cloth and faced up with mohair and velvetina facing, the latter 4 inches wide and the former 15. The front parts should be also interfaced around the bottom with horsehair cloth to the depth of ten inches. The seams should be taken in very accurately and pressed until it looks as if the skirt had grown together. The placket may be on the side or in the back. The seam along the bottom must be sewed very exactly, so that when turned and pressed it may present a straight line all around. This skirt, like the three piece, should be exactly the same length all around if for walking. If for home, it may be graduated to the desired length.

When all seams are sewed and the rest of the skirt finished, those dreadful plaits are to be laid in. This must be done on a frame exactly adjusted to the size of the wearer. The front breadths are fitted to the figure by gathers, which are sewed on the belt, allowing that portion to fit like a sheath over the hips, clear to within two inches of the center of the back. Then all that superfluous fullness is to be gathered into no more than five plaits. Some of the dressmakers arrange these plaits at the top in what they call burnoose style, which is really the easiest way of disposing of them. The method is shown in the diagram. As the folds take shape toward the bottom the tops should be cautiously and carefully fastened to tapes to preserve the round effect of the folds. This can be done with pins, but they must be stoutly sewed later.

These tapes should be placed at three intervals, the first three inches below the belt, the second three inches lower and the third three inches farther down. This is generally sufficient to hold the plaits in place all the way down. On the sides the skirt falls into heavy, rich folds of itself. Flat plaits turned under in fan shape can also be formed, but the plaits do not look so well, as but two can be laid, and that is not enough to take up all the fullness in the five gores skirts.

These skirts look best when quite plain, but some ladies like a trimming. Vandyke pointed guipure, white or black, may

FLUTED SKIRT WITH FIVE PIECES.

Be set on, with the points upward. A row or two of castle hercules braid, or a narrow passementerie would be suitable. But whatever is put on must look as if it had grown there. When the skirt is quite finished, it should have a final pressing with hot irons unless it is velvet.

A few dressmakers advise having five gores in the back in place of the two semi-circular ones. The cloth cuts to much better advantage in that way unless there is a figure in it, but figured goods are not often seen made in this style. Silks, velvets, tulle du nord, chevrons, broadcloths, covert cloth and such kinds of goods are the most suitable. However rich or costly the material, if the work is not done in the most careful manner the skirt will fail of its effect.

Although the Delaware and Chesapeake canal is but fourteen miles long it possesses a great deal more of what is properly called scenery than most canals. For much of its length it is a broad and seemingly natural stream, with bays and coves that stretch its width to nearly a mile.

The patriotism of the owner of a New York restaurant takes a novel form in which to express itself. Watermelon is served cut into thick red circles and placed on white plates with blue borders, so that the combination forms the tri-color.

Seventeen vessels of the navy have earned premiums for speed and horse power, in excess of the contract guarantees, aggregating $2,264,586, and about one-half of this amount has been paid to Cramp & Sons. The Minneapolis won $144,900 in premiums, the largest amount ever earned by any war vessel.

The mean temperature of several leading cities is as follows: Athens 63 degrees, Boston 49, Calcutta 78, Charleston 66, Constantinople 56, Dublin 50, Havana 78, Jerusalem 63, London 50, Mexico 60, Moscow 41, Naples 61, Paris 51, St. Louis 53, San Francisco 56, Savannah 67, Stockholm 42, Washington 56, Zanzibar 80.

The rich frescoing on the walls of the room of the committee on naval affairs in the capitol at Washington attracts a great deal of attention from visitors. Conspicuous on the walls are a half dozen female figures which show remarkable artistic skill and are also wonderful for the peculiar beauty of the face and form of each figure. It is apparent at almost a glance that one model served for the whole group. The painting was done by Brunetti, the famous Italian artist, and the model was the artist's wife.

EXTRAORDINARY PEOPLE.

The tallest people in the world are the Patagonians, whose average height is six feet; the shortest are the Laplanders, averaging but five.

The fattest man was David Lamb. A few days before his death, in his 40th year, he was weighed, and turned the balance at 739 pounds.

There has lately died near Ballymena, Ireland, David Yaston, who, at the age of 50, had attained the height of three feet. A widow and several children mourn his death.

The longest continued cataleptic sleep known to science was reported from Germany in 1892, the patient having remained absolutely unconscious for four and a half months.

Bulwer, in "The Artificial Changeling," tells of John Simonds, a native of Berkshire, who was born armless, but who could write with his mouth, thread a needle with his toe, tie a knot, play cards and do almost anything else that another person usually does with his fingers.

The most noted dwarf was Jeffery Hudson, born in 1619. At the age of 6 he was eighteen inches high and was served upon the table in a cold pie as a present to Charles I. At the age of 30 he began to grow, and reached the height of three feet nine inches. He lived to be 63 and died in prison, having been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the Popish plot.

The most remarkable instance of rapid growth was recorded by the French academy in 1749. It was a boy 6 years of age, five feet six inches in height. At the age of 5 his voice changed, at 6 his beard had grown, and he appeared a man of 30. He possessed great physical strength, and could easily lift to his shoulders and carry bags of grain weighing 200 pounds. His decline was as rapid as his growth. At 8 his hair and beard were gray; at 10 he tottered in his walk, his teeth fell out, and his hands became palsied; at 12 he died with every outward sign of extreme old age.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

Many steamboats made in Pittsburg are plying on South American rivers. Six-tenths of the population in Japan do not earn more than $10 per month.

Probably the largest tenement in the world is an enormous tenement in Wieden, a suburb of Vienna. It has 1,500 rooms, in which a whole town of human beings live.

A New York butter dealer makes these seemingly inconsistent announcements: "Very best butter, 25 cents; do. fine, 22 cents; do. good, 20 cents; cooking butter, 17 cents.

Eleanor Markham, 22 years old, of Sparkers, N. Y., recovered from a trance just as she was to be placed in a coffin preparatory to burial. Her physician thought she was dead.

"What a Lovely Complexion!"

"Isn't her complexion charming!" These are expressions we hear every day, made by women in reference to others, which reveal a pardonable envy, and one which can be gratified.

The secret of good health, as indicated by a rich color, and well-rounded figure, is found in a good digestion.

Shopping tours, dances and entertainments indulged in, will leave you utterly fagged out, unless you are obtaining all the value from your food; and it is so easy to accomplish this that you will wonder no one has spoken to you of it before.

Try with each meal, and at bed-time, a wineglassful or more of the Genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract, which you will find to be most acceptable to the palate as a beverage, and will lift you right on to the plane of the vivacious and trim-figured sister you admire so much, and who seems capable of enduring endless fatigue.

Then, again, we must remember the nursing mother, where two lives are dependent upon the proper nourishing of the one. Surely nothing can be more valuable to the mother, nor give more comfort to the baby, by producing a generous flow of milk, than the

GENUINE JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT.

Defective nutrition is the foundation of all ailments.

A healthy, well-nourished body can withstand almost any disease. There is resistance power in such a body.

I have been taking the Genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract myself for a year or so, and find it an excellent tonic and appetizer. Without doubt it is the best Malt Extract in the market.

We have created quite a movement in blankets. This is the time when good warm blankets are a necessity. The activity in our blanket department is all owing to the lively interest we are taking in reducing our stock by reducing figures to a smallness that is attracting the blanket buying public of this city
